Audio and video scripts in ELT materials are often criticised for their lack of authenticity, overload of target language, dull characters and non-existent plot lines. The writer needs to address these criticisms at the same time as working within the bounds of what learners can realistically handle. In this ebook John Hughes takes a look at the theoretical and practical issues involved in writing audio and video scripts for ELT materials; provides helpful suggestions for writing them, applying techniques used by writers for theatre and film, and encourages the writer to think critically about their script writing. Punctuated with examples from published materials, tasks and accompanying commentaries, John shares his experience and tips for best practice for creating scripts your learners will want to listen to. This ebook forms part of the ELT Teacher 2 Writer training course. The training ebooks are designed to help you write better ELT materials, either for publication, or simply to improve the quality of your self-produced classroom materials. Provided to instructors to share with students at their own discretion, the Answer Key and Audioscript provides answers to all activities in the Student Activities Manual and is accompanied by the printed transcript of the Lab Audio. Cambridge IELTS 10 provides students with an excellent opportunity to familiarise themselves with IELTS and to practise examination techniques using authentic test material prepared by Cambridge English Language Assessment. It contains four complete tests for Academic module candidates, plus extra Reading and Writing modules for General Training module candidates. An introduction to these different modules is included in each book, together with with an explanation of the scoring system used by Cambridge English Language Assessment. A comprehensive section of answers and tapescripts makes the material ideal for students working partly or entirely on their own. This booklet contains answers to the Student Activities Manual and includes the Lab Audio script for the "Activités orales" and "A l'écran!" sections. In this original and interdisciplinary work, Jing Tsu advances the notion of "literary governance" as a way of understanding literary dynamics and production on multiple scales: local, national, global. "Literary governance," like political governance, is an exercise of power, but in a "softer" way - it begins with language, rather than governments. In a globalizing world characterized by many diasporas competing for recognition, the global Chinese community has increasingly come to feel the necessity of a "national language," standardized and privileging its native speakers. As the national language gains power within the diasporic community, members of the diaspora become aware of themselves as a community. Eventually, they move from the internal state of awakened identity to being recognized as a community, and finally exercising power as a community. But this hegemony of the "national language" is constantly being challenged by different, nonstandard language uses, including various Chinese dialects, multiple registers, contested alphabet usage, and Chinese men and women who write in foreign languages. "Literary governance" reflects both the consensus-building power and the inherent divisiveness of these debates about language and is useful as a comparative model for thinking about not only Sinophone, Anglophone, Francophone, Lusophone, and Hispanophone literatures, but also any literary field that is currently expanding beyond the national. THE FULL SCRIPT OF THE AUDIO DRAMALate April 2020, Local talk radio host Vincent, is dealing with the current lockdown the only way he knows how, by being a voice in the dark. He encourages people to phone in and share their stories. From community leaders, frontline workers, and politicians, to teenagers, holiday makers and conspiracy theorists. They all join his producer, Nina, to tell Vincent of their experiences during the lockdown, sharing stories of human existence through laughter and loss. But for Vincent, the circumstances of his story may be the most challenging of all. The Isolationists is inspired by true events, as a reaction to the strange times that the world has been going through whilst it deals with the coronavirus Covid-19. It is a social commentary to not only entertain, but to mark the times, act as a tribute and a thank you, and remind us all that even apart, we can still be there for each other. This full script of the 1090 Audio production of The Isolationists was written during lockdown conditions, and recorded remotely with a full cast during May 2020. Provided to instructors to share with students at their own discretion, the Answer Key provides answers to all activities in the Workbook/Lab Manual/Video Manual and is accompanied by the printed transcript of the Lab Audio and Video Transcript. Based on reviewer feedback, audio is shortened and simplified in this edition to be more comprehensible to introductory students. Since the publication of the first edition in 1993, there have been important developments in the understanding of depression and in the treatment approaches. This new edition reflects these new realities, giving increased emphasis to the biological foundations of depression, the development of and wide use of antidepressant drugs, the shift in the means of dispensing these drugs from mental health professionals to primary care physicians, and the development of alternative medicine approaches to treatment. Written in an easy-to-read manner, the book provides a wide-ranging picture of what is known about depressed moods and depression, from demographic, biological, and psychological aspects to methods of treatment and issues surrounding recurrence. The Complete Guide to the TOEIC Test provides learners with a clearly organized, step-by-step program for maximizing test scores. It is the most complete and up-to-date guide to the TOEIC Test on the market. The Audioscript contains the complete script of all recorded material in the laboratory program. The Answer Key contains the answers to the "Pratica" and listening exercises in the Workbook and Lab Manual.
